Invesco S&P 500 Value with Momentum ETF

Analyst Report

The Invesco S&P 500 Value with Momentum ETF tracks an index of the 100 stocks within the S&P 500 that are the most undervalued and have the strongest price momentum. Momentum investing emphasizes stocks that have had better recent price performance, while value investing seeks out those stocks that are underpriced based on the company's fundamentals. The methodology winnows the investment universe down to 200 stocks by assessing earnings and sales relative to stock price. The 100 remaining stocks with the strongest momentum are then included. Money managers have long recognized that certain factors, when deployed during certain market conditions, consistently reward investors. Factor ETFs have proliferated in recent years and there are many active and passive ETF options that target different factors. Some funds combine factors while others target a single factor. SPVM charges high fees than pure-play ultra-low-cost value ETFs but the fees aren't outrageous for the multi-factor space. However, SPVM's strategy is too narrow for most buy-and-hold investors, and the fund lacks the daily liquidity that some tactical traders might be looking for.
