FactSet Analyst Report

BCKT seeks to provide predictable monthly distributions of income and principal through December 2030, less operating fees. The fund delivers fixed monthly payments of $0.0833 per share, with an increasing portion of these distributions coming from the principal as the fund progresses toward its term. Investments concentrate on US Treasury debt securities and money market funds exclusively holding such securities or repurchase agreements backed by them. The fund focuses on bonds with maturities of 5 years or less . A portion of each monthly distribution is considered return capital, reducing the amount for investment and lowering the investor's tax basis in their shares.
