

BLDX

Impax Global Sustainable Infrastructure ETF

Fund Description

BLDX is an actively managed global equity ETF focused on companies providing essential infrastructure across developed and emerging markets. The fund targets capital appreciation and income through exposure to infrastructure themes such as energy, utilities, and transportation.

FactSet Analyst Report

BLDX targets infrastructure businesses that support essential global systems and long-term sustainability themes through an actively managed equity portfolio. The fund invests in firms deriving significant revenues from infrastructure-related goods, services, or assets across areas such as clean energy, water systems, transportation, resource management, and data and communications. Portfolio construction combines fundamental financial analysis with ESG factors that the adviser considers financially material. The strategy is not limited to a single investment style and may hold growth, value, or blended exposures across different market capitalizations. BLDX invests globally, including a meaningful allocation to companies outside the US and may include emerging markets. Sector and regional positioning may shift over time, with potential exposure to areas such as industrials, utilities, and REITs. The fund converted from a mutual fund to an ETF with about $101 million in assets. Prior to May 1, 2026 the fund name was Impax Global Infrastructure ETF.

