

CGHY

Capital Group High Yield Bond ETF

Fund Description

CGHY is an actively managed portfolio with exposure to the global fixed income market. It exclusively holds high yield bonds while seeking high current income and capital appreciation.

FactSet Analyst Report

CGVV offers exposure to a broad portfolio of debt securities, ultimately comprised of high yield and lower rated bonds of any maturity or duration. It is designed for investors with a high-risk appetite seeking a high level of current income. Note that the fund comes with greater credit risk and price fluctuations compared to those with higher quality debt securities. Due to the funds active management, investment decisions including security selection are at the discretion of the adviser. Its assets, however, are not solely managed but are overseen by a team of portfolio managers. The fund provides global exposure, allowing investments in securities issued outside the United States. It may also hold derivatives, including futures contracts and swaps.
