

GGTL

Gabelli Global Technology Leaders ETF

Fund Description

GGTL is an actively managed fund that invests in companies from around the world identified as leaders driving innovation in technology.

FactSet Analyst Report

GGTL seeks high total return with capital preservation by investing in global technology leaders driving innovation. The actively managed fund considers stocks dedicating at least half of their assets or revenues to the technology sector (hardware, software, data, communications, semiconductors, and electronics). The fund invests in both US and non-US common stocks and ADRs, holding companies from at least three countries outside the US, with no limit on market capitalization. GGTL favors companies believed to possess market leadership and competitive advantages, strong returns on invested capital, proprietary technology, and track records in R&D. Buy/sell decisions are based on private market value (PMV), price, earnings, history, balance sheets, management skill, macroeconomic and political shifts, and individual corporate developments. Prior to Dec. 15, 2025, the fund was called Gabelli Automation ETF (Ticker: GAST) and focused on robotics and artificial intelligence. The fund also used a non-transparent portfolio model.

