JPMorgan International Hedged Equity Laddered Overlay ETF

Fund Description

HOLA is actively managed, investing in international equities across all market caps with a laddered options overlay. The fund seeks downside protection and lower volatility while aiming for improved risk-adjusted returns over a full market cycle.

FactSet Analyst Report

HOLA invests in international equities across all market capitalizations, paired with a continuous market hedge using a put spread collar. The portfolio generally reflects the sector and geographic makeup of the MSCI EAFE Index, though the manager can adjust exposures as needed. The fund uses a laddered options overlay by buying put options on MSCI EAFE ETFs, staggered across three overlapping three-month periods so that part of the hedge resets each month. The hedge combines higher-strike long puts with lower-strike short puts to form a put spread, partially funded by selling calls, which limits potential gains. This approach seeks to reduce downside risk and limit losses during market declines. Over a full market cycle, the fund aims to deliver capital appreciation with less volatility than traditional equity strategies. Prior to July 11, 2025, the fund was called JPMorgan International Hedged Equity Fund before converting to an ETF structure, starting at $230 million.
