Fund Description

HSRT is an actively managed fund that provides current income and long-term growth by holding a wide range of fixed income securities with a dollar-weighted average duration target of less than 3 years.

FactSet Analyst Report

HSRT should provide steady income with low volatility, and its limited duration risk means the fund should be less vulnerable to rising interest rates. The fund managers have great flexibility and range in the selection of fixed income securities, which may include investment-grade corporates, Treasuries, junk bonds, bank loans, mortgage-related securities, and derivatives. There are caps placed at 35% on high-yield securities, 35% on bank loans, and 25% on non-US issuers. HSRT's managers select the portfolio based on their assessment of attractive yield and total return.
