

TTEQ

T. Rowe Price Technology ETF

Fund Description

TTEQ is actively managed, seeking long-term capital growth by investing in large-cap technology companies globally and those whose market share is largely based on their technology capabilities.

FactSet Analyst Report

TTEQ is designed to capture the transformative power of technology in both core firms and broader industries enabled by it. The adviser prioritizes stocks considered enduring technology companies. Portfolio selection is based on fundamental research, assessing each company's business prospects, stock valuation, and potential for share price appreciation. While the fund's holdings primarily consist of large-cap companies with established track records, it also targets smaller, emerging firms offering innovative technologies, including recent IPOs. Additionally, the fund invests in companies that indirectly benefit from technological advancements. The portfolio is not limited to US markets and includes investments in international and emerging markets.
