

VDG

Vanguard Developed Markets ex-US Growth Index ETF

Fund Description

VDG tracks a market-cap-weighted index of developed market equities outside the United States with a tilt toward growth stocks. The strategy provides large- and mid-cap international developed markets exposure excluding US companies.

FactSet Analyst Report

VDG provides passive exposure to growth-oriented companies across developed markets outside the United States. The fund tracks an index of large- and mid-cap stocks classified as growth names and weights holdings by float-adjusted market capitalization, resulting in larger positions in the biggest companies within the eligible universe. The strategy can offer international diversification while emphasizing businesses with stronger expected earnings growth or higher market valuations relative to traditional value stocks. It may appeal to those seeking developed ex-US equity exposure with a growth style tilt.
