FactSet Analyst Report

XCNY is a passively managed fund that invests in securities of companies within emerging markets, excluding China. The portfolio may include equities of any market capitalization. Stock selection and weighting are based on float-adjusted market capitalization. The fund uses a sampling method to provide exposure, meaning it may not hold every stock in the index but instead holds a representative of securities that collectively mirror the investment profile of the underlying index. The index is reconstituted annually in September. Prior to Feb. 2, 2026, the fund was named without reference to the issuer, State Street.
